Research, Funding News

President Trump announced a deal to reopen parts of the government temporarily through February 15: NSF expects that in-person panels that were previously scheduled to occur at NSF on Tuesday, January 29 and Wednesday, January 30 will be postponed or conducted virtually. No panels will take place on Monday, January 28, 2019. NSF will continue to accept proposals in accordance with published deadlines.

Policy Changes at NIH: Rules regarding human subjects, updated review criteria, eligibility for the AREA (R15) program are among the changes going into effect for applications submitted to the agency beginning Jan. 25. The R15 activity code will be rebranded as "NIH Research Enhancement Award."

Pivot is making an important change: On March 1, 2019, Pivot is moving to https://pivot.proquest.com and the current Pivot URL, https://pivot.cos.com will be discontinued. Traffic to cos.com will not automatically redirect to the new URL, including any links you have on your websites, including bookmarks or saved searches. The new URL is already available and you can start updating your materials and communicate this change now.

New internal budget builder template: OGCA recently published Budget Builder FY 2019 Version, with reduced fringe benefit rates and other built-in modifications. Please use this version for future budget planning.
